

This is not something that is necessary to open up again. Most of the population does not want the harrassment of calls to restart. We will call the companies that we are interested in doing business with, and if we left a bank or phone company or whatever, there was a reason we did just that.